

Breuberg, a Meierhof, 8.5 km north of Meiningen, on a 479 m high foothill of the Dolmar. In the Middle Ages mostly owned by the noble Geselechtes der Wölfe v. d. Landeswehr (pack of wolves?), the operation now belongs to the Gentlemen v. Bibra.

Bruckner, Neue Landesk. II, 8. 137.      L. H.

A Meierhof or Meyerhof (from Latin: maiores villae) was a farm or building which was occupied or had been occupied by the administrator (the Meier) of a noble or ecclesiastical estate.
